

Alison Tatar (nee Standinghorn), Moosomin Band Manager is a member of Sweetgrass First Nation. She currently resides in Battleford, SK with her husband Mark and daughter Basia. They have three adult children, Kasey, Denis and Bianca all living in the province.

Alison has 20 management experience and over 25 years in Administration. She was previously employed with Battlefords Agency Tribal Chiefs as the Director of Governance for a period of 10 years. At BATC, she was responsible for the continual improvement, implementation, and supervision of the Tribal Council's Risk Management program and Corporate Governance models. Supporting the Annual Strategic Plan and Risk Review process. She also administered the Human Resource file for a period of six years. Other positions held at the Tribal Council were BATC CDC General Manager and Director of Operations.

Upon leaving BATC after 13 years, Alison took contract work with various local First Nations and First Nation institutions providing facilitation and development of strategic planning, strategic road mapping, work planning, policy analysis, research, and development; First Nation Land Use Planning; teambuilding; Lateral Violence

Training; proposal writing and First Nation board governance training.

Alison also worked for SIGA at the Gold Eagle Casino site for a period of six years, holding management positions in Marketing and Customer Service. She has served on numerous boards, including Battlefords Chamber of Commerce, Battlefords Tourism, FSIN Women's Commission Advisory Council, BATC Social Development, BATC Athletics, BATC Employment & Training, and continues to serve on BATC Investments, First Alliance Group of Companies and Nihkh Manufacturing.

Her goal is to build capacity within First Nations through leadership and mentorship, using the skills and experience gained throughout her career journey.

